Fun Fact of the Day: Pisa's Famous Lean Was a Total Accident!

Construction began on August 9, 1173, when Pisa set out to build a grand bell tower beside its cathedral. But thanks to soft, unstable soil and a shallow 10-foot foundation, the tower began to tilt just a few years in! Work stopped and restarted over nearly 200 years, which actually helped stabilize it. The tower was finally completed in 1372, still leaning—but standing strong!

Today, it tilts at just under 4 degrees and remains one of the world's most iconic (and accidental!) architectural wonders.
